A PRAYER FOR THE END OF THE YEAR

Another year closed. As I look back on the year, I see much pain, much suffering, and great joy. It seems to me, that in spite of my sinfulness, I have come a little closer to Christ; I see his face a little more clearly. And, seeing his face, I see myself a little better. Here, as I pause and look deep into my heart, I must admit to a feeling of fear and near trembling. The graces given to me were many; so many were God's gifts to me. And how little use I made of them! How loudly I have spoken throughout this past year of the faults and failings of others, especially the clergy. And how little I have done to correct my own! Lord, have mercy! I have, in your wisdom, your heart, and your grace. the depths of my heart, suffered in my pride, and have mistaken these sufferings for some real woe. How little do I know of the elusive virtue of humility. And yet, one look within me ought to annihilate me completely! All I have to say for myself, as I look at the past year, is that I have tried—alas very badly—to love and serve God, and through him, my brothers and sisters. I could have and should have done better. Alone, dear Jesus, I cannot. But with your help, I will try again. I want to be very still, not even praying with my lips—just to sit at your feet, my God, and listen to the great silence in which you seem to whisper to my heart. There are so many things I want to hear from you in that silence; yet I must go back into the rush and turmoil of life. But, as I think of it, I see a way out. And that is to keep deep in my soul—within the rush and turmoil—that great silence and peace in which alone we poor mortals can clearly hear your quiet voice. We are so weak that alone we can do nothing, not even keep silent in our souls in order to hear your voice.

For the New Year that comes—so full of possibilities of serving you—I ask three gifts, in memory of the Three Wise Kings. I ask for your protection of my son, for the grace of that silence that will allow me to hear your voice, and for the courage to do as your voice will guide me. Amen.

FAITH MATTERS: Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI, rest in peace. 12 Quotes from Our Sunday Visitor

1) "We are not some casual and meaningless product of evolution. Each of us is the result of a thought of God. Each of us is willed, each of us is loved, each of us is necessary." 2) "Being Christian is not the result of an ethical choice or a lofty idea, but the encounter with an event, a person, which gives life a new horizon and a decisive direction." 3) "Friends, again I ask you, what about today? What are you seeking? What is God whispering to you? The hope which never disappoints is Jesus Christ." 4) "Our serenity, our hope and our peace are based precisely on this: in God, in his thoughts and in his love, it is not merely a 'shadow' of ourselves that survives but rather we are preserved and ushered into eternity with the whole of our being in him, in his creator love. It is his Love that triumphs over death and gives us eternity and it is this love that we call 'Heaven': God is so great that he also makes room for us." 5) "We need the greater and lesser hopes that keep us going day by day. But these are not enough without the great hope, which must surpass everything else. This great hope can only be God, who encompasses the whole of reality and who can bestow upon us what we, by ourselves, cannot attain." 6) "It is probably not very often that we make haste for the things of God. God does not feature among the things that require haste. The things of God can wait, we think and we say. And yet he is the most important thing, ultimately the one truly important thing." 7) "To believe is none other than, in the obscurity of the world, to touch the hand of God and thus, in silence, to hear the Word, to see Love.." 8) "Truth — which is itself gift, in the same way as charity — is greater than we are, as Saint Augustine teaches. Likewise the truth of ourselves, of our personal conscience, is first of all given to us. In every cognitive process, truth is not something that we produce, it is always found, or better, received." 9) "The new weapon that Jesus places in our hands is the Cross — a sign of reconciliation, of forgiveness, a sign of love that is stronger than death. Every time we make the Sign of the Cross we should remember not to confront injustice with other injustice or violence with other violence: let us remember that we can only overcome evil with good and never by paying evil back with evil." 10) "The priesthood, then, is not simply 'office' but sacrament: God makes use of us poor men in order to be, through us, present to all men and women, and to act on their behalf. This audacity of God who entrusts himself to human beings — who, conscious of our weaknesses, nonetheless considers men capable of acting and being present in his stead — this audacity of God is the true grandeur concealed in the word 'priesthood.'" 11) "Consequently, the more we imitate Jesus and remain united to him the more we enter into the mystery of his divine holiness. We discover that he loves us infinitely, and this prompts us in turn to love our brethren. Loving always entails an act of self-denial, 'losing ourselves,' and it is precisely this that makes us happy." 12) "God is not, let's say, a ruling power, a distant force; rather he is love and he loves me-and as such, life should be guided by him, by this power called love."
