Reflections from the Administrator's Desk

While the Novus Ordo / Ordinary Form celebrates this Sunday as the 3rd Sunday of Easter, the traditional Latin Mass of the Extraordinary Form marks this Sunday with the Feast of St. Joseph the Worker as a First Class feast takes precedence over the second class Sunday. A very similar thing occurs in Ordinary Time when certain feasts takes precedence when they occur on a Sunday, such as St. Peter & Paul on June 29th, the birth of St. John the Baptist on June 24th, the Transfiguration of the Lord on August 6th, and the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary on August 15th to name but a few. While the second Sunday after Easter is still commemorated through the second Collect, Secret, and Post-Communion, it is clear even from the Preface of St. Joseph, and the specific readings for his feast that he is the focus of this Sunday's celebration. From the inspiration of St. Joseph, who, together with his wife Mary, was entrusted with the fatherly care of the boy Jesus at the home at Nazareth, human work acquires a renewed dignity of sharing in God's creative and redemptive plan. These few thoughts from the Internet might be worth pondering: "One of the greatest threats to a healthy spiritual life is simply a lack of things to do. With it comes laziness, boredom, temptations and the slow ease into sin. ... Work is a most practical remedy to the many sins that easily follow from idleness. Before you can let sinful thoughts take hold, quickly shift into some activity – whether it be physical exercise, practicing a skill, finally cleaning out that closet or storage space. Work is a spiritual antidote to this most prominent sin of the modern world – call it sloth, boredom, acedia, or a number of other names. In an age of TVs, smart phones, and a pandemic that has cancelled countless activities and kept many people shuttered within their homes, there's no doubt that modern life directs us to be passively entertained, not actively working....This sanctification of work reaches an entirely new depth through the Incarnation. When Christ enters the world, He spent His early years not as a royal prince or philosopher, but as a labourer. "Our Lord desired to do manual labour for many years before initiating his public ministry. Why did he do it? He did it because he wanted to sanctify work and teach us that work is honourable and pleasing to God." (Calloway, Consecration to St. Joseph) Christ fulfilled that early commandment in Genesis as a carpenter – a man who takes the wood created by God and through his labour shapes it into something new and useful. „St. Joseph is the model for Christian work because "he taught the God-man how to work.”"

FAITH MATTERS: Prayer to St. Joseph the Worker

St. Joseph, by the work of your hands and the sweat of your brow, you supported Jesus and Mary, and had the Son of God as your fellow worker. Teach me to work as you did, with patience and perseverance, for God and for those whom God has given me to support. Teach me to see in my fellow workers the Christ who desires to be in them, that I may always be charitable and forbearing towards all. Grant me to look upon work with the eyes of faith, so that I shall recognize in it my share in God’s own creative activity and in Christ’s work of our redemption, and so take pride in it. When it is pleasant and productive, remind me to give thanks to God for it. And when it is burdensome, teach me to offer it to God, in reparation for my sins and the sins of the world. Amen.
